Penn State Abington, a proud member of the North Eastern Athletic Conference (NEAC) and NCAA Division III, invites you to play for the Nittany Lions. Many recruits want to compete at a high level in college, but don't want the time demands that come with playing in a Division I program. Penn State Abington offers you the chance to wear the Blue and White and play your sport at a very competitive level, but also have time in your schedule to do other things. We have a rich tradition of team success at the conference level—every year most of our teams compete for conference titles.

We're close enough to home for your family and friends to follow your games, yet far enough away for you to establish your identity, away from the high school crowds.

You'll form relationships with coaches, faculty, and staff that will enhance your career opportunities and develop friendships that will last the rest of your life.

Did we mention that you can choose from sixteen majors to earn your Penn State degree—all on Abington's gorgeous campus?

If you're looking for a way to become a part of the Penn State tradition—check out Penn State Abington!
